CALL FOR PAPERS

REIMAGINING LANDSCAPES

The intent of the Conference is to be inspired by pioneers, share with our peers and collaborate with policy makers to contribute to the critical contemporary dialogue between ecological resilience, social relevance and cultural context.

The Submissions of Papers for the Conference is open to national and international Landscape Architects and related professionals in academia, research and practice, and students from Architecture and related programs to submit Papers that effectively address the theme of the conference – REIMAGINING LANDSCAPES - to inform critical issues and bring forth ideas to inculcate in our approaches to designing for the future.

The topics under each sub-theme may include but are not limited to the following:

IDENTITY

What wisdom is inherent in traditional practices which have been carried forward by numerous generations? How have cultural landscapes with strong and distinct identities evolved over time? What can we learn from these landscapes that can feed our interventions into shaping landscapes which adapt themselves to changing conditions, yet retain their connection with culture and place?

Keywords: traditional wisdoms, geographical context, identity, conservation

APPROACH

How can cultural practices inspire contemporary trends? How do we give stability to the fragile identities of the landscapes in current practices? How can we change our approach to include the identities of cultural landscapes and create evolved ecological wisdoms for future generations to study?

Keywords: adaptations, ecological foundation, fragile ecosystems, conservation, sustainability

STEWARDSHIP

What are the ways that can be used to create and manage ecologically sensitive landscapes? Can we help to blur the boundaries between man-made and natural landscapes? How can current and future-ready technologies and alternative passive measures help to create resilience and self-regulation in ecological systems?

Keywords: technology, man-made landscapes, resilience, inclusive
